1. Summary

As part of continuing efforts to improve the education system, Alberta Education and Alberta Advanced Education and Technology annually conducts surveys of the Alberta public to assess satisfaction with key areas of the education system. For 2007/2008, the survey included a total of 3,000 participants, with members of the general public (including both adult learners and adult non-learners) responding to questions about education in Alberta. This summary highlights the main findings from the 2007/2008 Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey as they pertain to adult education.

Satisfaction with Accessibility of Education

Approximately three-quarters of public respondents were satisfied that the programs, classes, or courses they want are offered at suitable locations and times (76% and 72%, respectively), and 61% were satisfied that there is enough space to enrol.

Satisfaction with Affordability of Education

About three in five (61%) public respondents agreed that the adult education system is within their own financial means, while 52% agreed that it is within the means of most Albertans.

Satisfaction with Preparation for Citizenship

The majority (59%) of public respondents were satisfied that adults taking education or training are well prepared for citizenship; however, 30% did not provide a response for this item.

Adult Learners

Of the total sample of 3,000 public respondents, 32% reported that they were adult learners, having taken education or training in Alberta in the past 12 months.

The vast majority of adult learners (89%) reported being satisfied that they are able to access the education or training they want within Alberta's learning system.

Adult Non-Learners

Of the total sample of 3,000 survey respondents, 68% were identified as adult non-learners. The most frequent reasons given for why adults had not taken any education or training during the past 12 months were lack of time (22%), and lack of interest (16%).

Overall, three-quarters (74%) of adult non-learners were satisfied that most adults have access to the education or training they want.

2. Introduction

As part of its mission, Alberta Education and Alberta Advanced Education and Technology provide leadership and work with stakeholders to ensure that students are prepared for lifelong learning, work, and citizenship so that they can become self-reliant, responsible, and contributing members of a democratic, knowledge-based, and prosperous society. In order to contribute to the advancement of the education system, a number of goals have been established which outline the government's ongoing aims and long-term direction, as well as provide an environment of continuous improvement and accountability to both students and the public. As part of its continual efforts to improve Alberta's education system, Alberta Education and Alberta Advanced Education and Technology routinely implement performance measures to assess and report on the progress of each of these goals, and the satisfaction of Albertans with selected aspects of the education system forms a significant portion of these measures. Hence, Alberta Education and Alberta Advanced Education and Technology annually commission telephone surveys of random samples of the Alberta public and key client groups in order to assess perceptions of how the education system is performing in meeting the needs and expectations of Alberta students and the Alberta public.

In December, 2007, R.A. Malatest & Associates Ltd. (Malatest) was contracted by Alberta Education, Performance Measurement and Reporting Branch, in conjunction with Alberta Advanced Education and Technology, to conduct the annual surveys aimed at evaluating client satisfaction with the education system in the province for 2007/2008. Surveys were conducted with key respondent groups as part of a commitment to the continuous improvement of the education system. One of the key client groups targeted for surveying was members of the general public in Alberta, including both adults who have recently taken education or training and those who have not. For the purpose of this report, "adult learner" refers to adults in Alberta who have taken education or training in the past 12 months in Alberta, while "adult non-learners" refers to adults who have not taken education or training in the past 12 months in Alberta. The Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner survey is conducted annually to assess perceptions of and satisfaction with key areas of the education system, to identify areas for possible improvement or further investigation, and to collect information regarding the K-12 education system as well as the adult education system. This report highlights the key findings from the 2007/2008 Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey specifically as they pertain to adult education in Alberta. A historical perspective of results is provided where possible through comparison of 2007/2008 results with those obtained in previous years. A brief description of both the methodology used to conduct this survey and the key analysis issues precede a full discussion of the results.¹

¹ More detailed information regarding the methodology and analysis for this survey may be found in the Methodology report.

3. Methodology

Based on instruments previously used for this annual survey, Alberta Education and Alberta Advanced Education and Technology prepared a survey instrument aimed at assessing satisfaction with various aspects of the education system among members of the Alberta public, including both adult learners and adult non-learners. A copy of the complete survey instrument is attached as Appendix A.

The target population for this survey included members of the public in Alberta who may or may not have recently taken any education or training. More specifically, as in previous years, the target respondent group for the Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey was the general public in Alberta, including both:

- Adult learners (Albertans aged 18 or older who have participated in a credit or non-credit course in Alberta in the last 12 months prior to the survey), and
- Adult non-learners (Albertans aged 18 or older who have not participated in a credit or non-credit course in Alberta in the last 12 months prior to the survey).

The survey sample was obtained using a random listed sample for Alberta by census subdivision. The census subdivision information was used to code the region for each record. Detailed information about the sample is provided in Table 3-1.

Table 3-1 Sample Statistics by Region

Data collection for the Public Survey took place during the period of March 6 to May 13, 2008, with the average survey length being 22 minutes. Data collection was initially scheduled for January/February 2008; however, given the provincial election that took place on March 3, 2008, data collection was consequently scheduled from March through May 2008. Trained interviewers used a Computer-Assisted Telephone Interview (CATI) system to complete a total of 3,000 surveys with members of the Alberta public. The call dispositions for this project are shown in Table 3-2.

A minimum of 20% of all calls were monitored by Malatest supervisors or managers. The survey was conducted in compliance with the requirements of Alberta's Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act insofar as it applies to the personal information that was supplied, collected, or used in providing the services required by Alberta Education.

4. Analysis

For the purposes of this report, first-level data analysis includes presentation of descriptive statistics (frequencies) for survey items in text, tables, and figures, as appropriate. The following should be noted with regard to the presentation of frequency data:

- Many items on the survey use four-point response scales including “very satisfied, satisfied, dissatisfied, very dissatisfied” or “strongly agree, agree, disagree, strongly disagree,” etc., depending on the question. Although not asked, “don’t know/not applicable” and “no response” (refusals) were recorded as well. Results presented in this report may represent percentages for each of the individual options in a response scale or the combined percentages of respondents who reported “very satisfied/satisfied” or “strongly agree/agree.” Thus, in the body of the report, overall or total satisfaction or agreement refers to these combined percentages, whereas results pertaining to individual response-scale categories are specified separately in the text.
- Percentages are based on all responses for each item (i.e., “don’t know/not applicable” and “no response” are included in the calculations). For all items, the “don’t know/not applicable” and “no response” categories are combined into one category called “DK/NA/NR.” When applicable, the specific percentages of “don’t know/not applicable” vs. “no response” are specified in the text.
- All percentages are rounded to the nearest whole number based on computer-generated analysis. For single response items, percentages may not total to 100% due to rounding. Similarly, rounded percentages for individual response options may not total exactly to combined percentages due to rounding. Therefore, percentages in text and tables may appear to differ by 1% due to rounding.
- In the case of multiple-response items for which participants could provide more than one response, percentages are expressed in terms of the number of respondents, and, as a result, percentages total to more than 100% for these variables.
- For the fifteen open-ended items on the survey, the comments made by respondents were coded into multiple response categories. The procedure for this involved creating the response categories based on a thorough sampling of the open-ended responses and the response categories used in previous years. Note that while raw frequencies for the coded variables are shown in the data tables as presented in Appendix B of this report, the coded variables may be shown in combined or collapsed categories in the body of the report to enhance clarity and facilitate analysis.
- Historical frequency data are presented for all items which have been asked in previous years. All historical data are taken from the 2007 reports provided by Alberta Education. Whenever possible, the number of respondents (n) from the previous years' results is indicated in the relevant table or chart notes. The exact wording of each item (when known) for each year is also presented in table and chart notes, and significant wording changes are noted in the text.

Detailed frequencies for each item on the survey are available in the data tables in Appendix B.

Accuracies for the samples are shown in Table 4-1.

Table 4-1 Confidence Intervals
Target Group	Number of Completions	95% Confidence Interval
Public	3,000	± 1.8%
Adult Learner	972	± 3.1%
Adult Non-Learner	2028	± 2.2%

In order to analyze trends over time using data from previous surveys, the confidence intervals (CI's) for each year were taken into consideration. Given the relatively similar sample sizes at least in the most recent years, general rules of thumb were adopted such that a difference of at least 5% was required before any results are described as significantly different for the public and adult non-learner parts of the survey, and a difference of at least 7% was required before results are described as significantly different for the adult learner part of the survey.

Second-level analysis for group comparisons consists of crosstabulations (crosstabs) for categorical data. Crosstabs were conducted for a series of variables of theoretical and practical interest that were identified in advance of data analysis. Specifically, all survey responses were examined according to selected demographic variables, and crosstabs between related survey questions also were calculated. For this survey, crosstabs were conducted for all items according to the demographic variables of respondent's including, if there is a child in the respondent's household currently attending elementary, junior or senior high school; income; age; if the respondent has participated in education or training in the past 12 months; highest level of education attained; and geographical region, which included the following areas:

Geographic Region

- 1.) Calgary
- 2.) Edmonton
- 3.) Other Cities (Airdrie, Camrose, Cold Lake, Fort McMurray, Fort Saskatchewan, Grande Prairie, Leduc, Lethbridge, Lloydminster, Medicine Hat, Red Deer, Spruce Grove, St. Albert, and Wetaskiwin)
- 4.) Non-Cities (all other areas)

All crosstabs were conducted using combined response options as described above (i.e., “very satisfied” + “satisfied” vs. “dissatisfied” + “very dissatisfied,” or “strongly agree” + “agree” vs. “disagree” + “strongly disagree,” etc.). It also should be noted that “DK/NA/NR” responses were included in all crosstab analyses, and thus, like the general descriptive analysis, the crosstab analysis is based on responses from all participants. Results for each crosstab were examined and the results of crosstabs with significant outcomes ($p < .05$) are described in general terms in the body of this report.² The details of the crosstabs are available in Appendix B. Significant differences are indicated with ++ and -- next to the data cells, with ++ indicating a significant positive difference and -- indicating a significant negative difference from the expected/total value.

² A minimal number of significant crosstabs for which no practical difference in frequency results could be observed – i.e., results that differ by a relatively small percentage or that are based only on a small subset of respondents – are not described in the body of the text.

5. Sample Demographics

Table 5-1 shows the demographic information for each part of the survey, including the demographics for all 3,000 members of the public in addition to the breakdown of adult learners and non-learners. Table 5-2 shows the educational demographic breakdown in the same format. Frequency results for all survey items, including breakdowns by selected demographic categories, are shown in Appendix B.

6. Public Survey Results

6.1. Satisfaction with Adult Education

6.1.1. Satisfaction with Accessibility of Education

In order to assess perceptions of adult education in Alberta, public respondents were asked a series of questions regarding how accessible education and training is for them. Ratings of satisfaction with accessibility of programs, classes or courses are displayed in Table 6-1.

Overall, about three-quarters (76%) of respondents indicated that they were satisfied that the programs, classes or courses they want are offered in locations (including on-line) that are accessible to them, and 72% were satisfied that the programs they want are offered at times that are suitable for them. There was relatively less satisfaction that the programs, classes or courses have enough spaces available to enrol (61%), although 25% of respondents did not provide a response to this item.

Table 6-1 (Public) Satisfaction with the Accessibility of Education and Training

2008 Q19 "Are you very satisfied, satisfied, dissatisfied, or very dissatisfied with the following . . . (a) The programs, classes or courses you want are offered in locations (including on-line) that are easily accessible for you. (b) The programs, classes or courses you want are offered at suitable times for you. (c) The programs, classes or courses you want have enough spaces available for you to enrol (that is, the classes are not always full)."

Additional crosstab analysis revealed that:

- Satisfaction with all aspects of accessibility of education and training was higher among respondents who indicated they have taken education or training for adults and lower among those who have not.
- Satisfaction with program, classes or courses being easily accessible was higher among respondents from Edmonton and those aged 18 to 24 years, and lower among those from non cities.

- Satisfaction with program, classes or courses being offered at suitable times was higher among respondents from Edmonton and those aged 18 to 24 years.
- Satisfaction with program, classes or courses having enough spaces available was higher among respondents aged 18 to 24 years.

Results concerning satisfaction with accessibility of education and training were similar to those observed in the previous years (see Table 6-2).

6.1.2. Satisfaction with Affordability of Education

Public respondents were also asked their opinions about the extent to which the education system in Alberta is within their means as well as the means of most Albertans. While approximately three in five (61%) agreed that Alberta’s adult education system is within their own financial means, a somewhat smaller proportion (52%) agreed that Alberta’s learning system is within the means of most Albertans (see Table 6-3).

Table 6-3 (Public) Agreement that Alberta’s Learning System is Within the Financial Means of Albertans
	Total Agree	Strongly Agree	Agree	Disagree	Strongly Disagree	DK/NA/ NR

n=3000

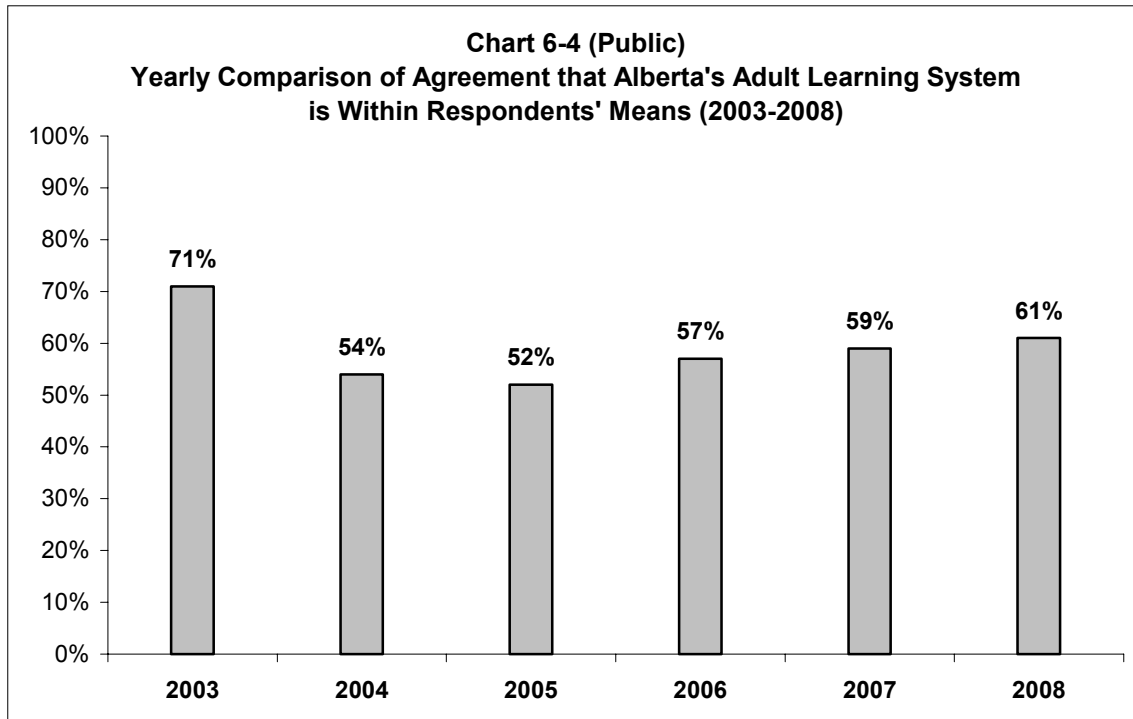

2008 Q20 “Would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree with the following . . . (a) Alberta’s adult education system is within your financial means? (b) Alberta’s learning system is within the means of most Albertans? “

Crosstab analysis indicated that agreement with Alberta’s adult education system being within their financial means was:

- Higher among respondents who indicated they have taken education or training for adults and lower among those who have not.
- Higher among respondents from Calgary and lower among those from Edmonton.
- Higher among respondents aged 45+ years and lower among those aged 18-24 years.
- Higher among those reporting annual income of $95,000+ and lower among those reporting annual income less than $50,000.

Crosstab analysis also indicated that agreement with Alberta’s learning system being within the means of most Albertans was lower among respondents from Edmonton.

Similar items to those displayed in Table 6-36 were asked in previous surveys, although the wording of the items changed slightly in each case. In 2003, only adult learners were asked: “Would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree that Alberta’s learning system is within your means?” In 2004-2007, however, all public respondents were asked: “Would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree that Alberta’s adult education system is within your financial means?” In this case, not only did the wording of the item change, but the applicable respondent group also changed. This may account for the apparent decline in agreement that was observed from 2003 to 2004 (see Chart 6-4). However, the results for 2008 indicate a positive trend since 2004 and 2005 results.

n=1103 in 2003, n=2003 in 2004, n=3000 in 2005, n=3000 in 2006, n=3000 in 2007, n=3000 in 2008

2003 The following was asked only of adult learners: “Would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree that Alberta’s learning system is within your means?”

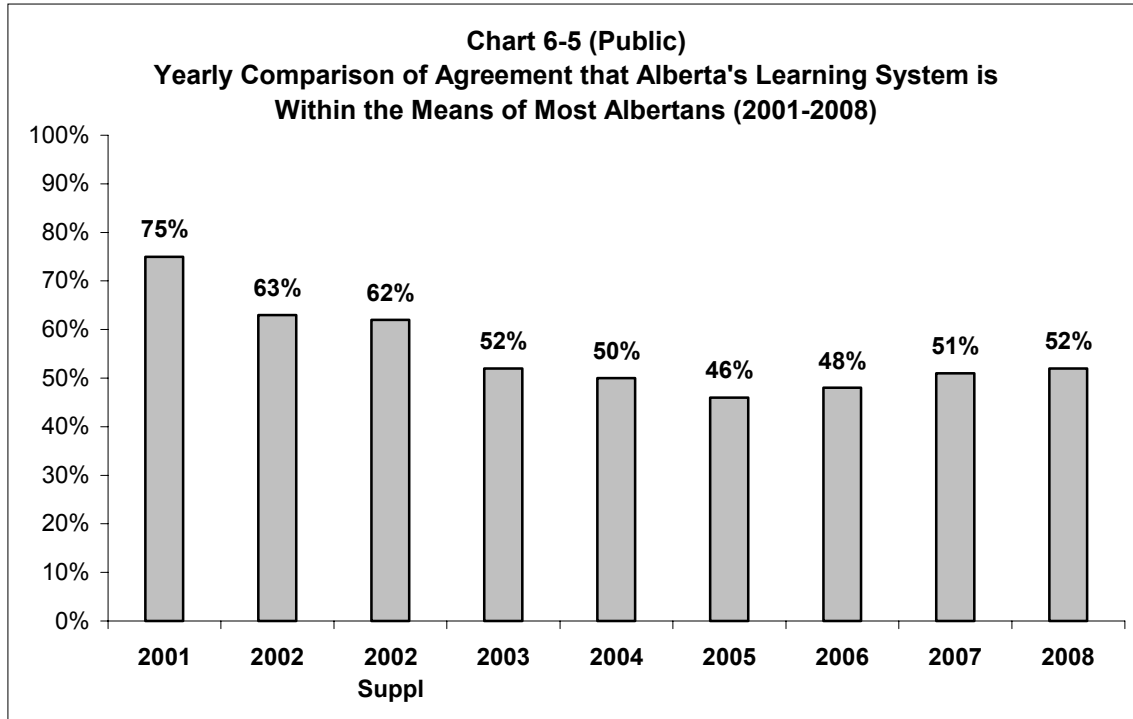

2004-2008 The following was asked of all public respondents (including both adult learners and non-learners): “Would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree that Alberta’s adult education system is within your financial means?”

Agreement that Alberta’s Learning System is within the means of most Albertans showed an increasing trend from 2005 to 2008. (see Chart 6-5).

Please note that for the 2001-2003 survey years, the question “would you strongly agree, agree, disagree or strongly disagree that Alberta’s learning system is within the means of most Albertans?” was prefaced by the preamble “thinking about Alberta’s Learning system as a whole--that is, including elementary, junior high and senior high school students, apprenticeship and post-secondary institutions--”. This preamble was not used for the 2004-2008 surveys, but the wording of the actual question remained the same. Furthermore, in 2006 and 2007 a new preamble was read prior to this question that was not read until after this question in previous surveys. The preamble introduced the questions that followed as concerning Alberta's adult learning system.

n=2012 in 2003, n=2003 in 2004, n=3000 in 2005, n=3000 in 2006, n=3000 in 2007, n=3000 in 2008; n's for 2001, 2002 and 2002 Suppl were not available in the Source Report

In addition to rating their agreement with these statements about the learning system being within their own means and within the means of most Albertans, respondents were also asked to provide a reason for their ratings. These open-ended responses were coded by two independent coders into pre-determined categories based on a summary examination of sample responses and response categories used in previous years. The two resulting coded variables were multiple-response variables, and the categories used for coding are shown in full detail with multiple-response frequencies in the Appendix B data tables for these items. The following tables summarize the results of that coding according to the numbers of positive and negative comments.

When asked to comment on their ratings with regard to the adult education system being within their own financial means, the most frequently mentioned positive comments concerned the personal affordability of education for the respondent (44%) or the affordability of adult education in Alberta in general (35%) (see Table 6-6). The most frequently mentioned negative comments included the opposing opinions that adult education is generally not affordable (43%), or that the respondent could not personally afford it (16%)(see Table 6-7).

6.1.3. Satisfaction with Preparation for Citizenship

All respondents from the public survey were also asked how satisfied they were that adults taking education or training are being well prepared for citizenship. The majority (59%) of respondents reported being satisfied that adults taking education or training are well prepared for citizenship, although they were more likely to report being “satisfied” (51%) rather than “very satisfied” (8%) (see Chart 6-10). However, 30% of respondents did not provide a response to this item.

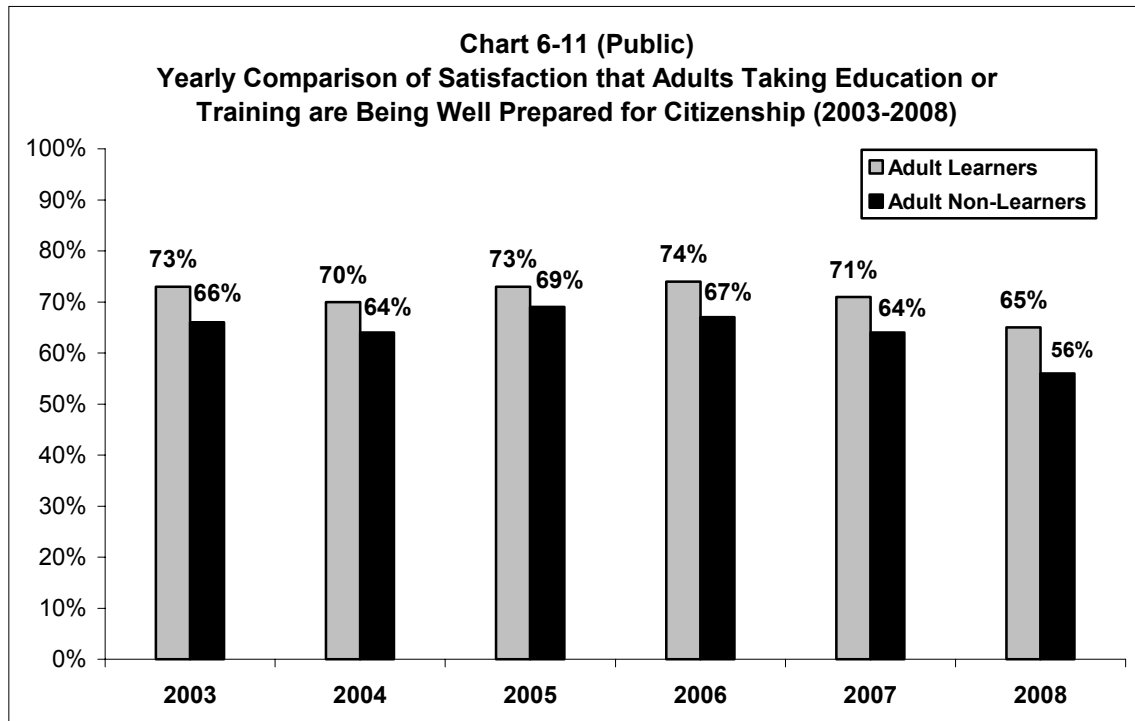

n=3000

2008 Q25 “How satisfied are you that adults taking education or training are being well prepared for citizenship?”

Crosstab analysis revealed that satisfaction with adults taking education or training being well prepared for citizenship was:

- Higher among respondents from other cities and lower among those from Calgary.
- Higher among respondents aged 18-34 years and lower among those aged 55+ years.

In previous surveys, satisfaction with preparation for citizenship was asked separately for adult learners and adult non-learners. Therefore, based on responses to the forthcoming question about whether they had taken any education or training in Alberta in the past 12 months, results for the current year are also shown separately for adult learners and adult non-learners for the purposes of comparison over time (see Chart 6-11). In general, satisfaction for adult learners and adult non-learners was lower in 2008 than it was in 2005. Also, it appears that adult non-learners tend to be somewhat less likely to be satisfied with adult learners' preparation for citizenship as compared to adult learners.

Note that complete trending results for adult learners prior to 2003 were not available in the source report; therefore trending information is shown for both groups starting only from 2003.

For adult learners: n=1103 in 2003, n=1000 in 2004, n=1035 in 2005, n=1049 in 2006, n=986 in 2007, n=972 in 2008

For adult non-learners: n=2006 in 2003, n=2000 in 2004, n=1965 in 2005, n=1951 in 2006, n=2014 in 2007, n=2028 in 2008

Source: 2007 "Survey Summary Report: Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey."

6.2. Number of Adult Learners vs. Non-Learners

All respondents were asked if they had taken any education or training in Alberta in the past 12 months. This item was used as a screening question to identify adult learners and adult non-learners. Specifically, respondents who had participated in education in Alberta within the past 12 months were identified as “adult learners,” whereas those who did not participate in education in Alberta in the past 12 months were identified as “adult non-learners.” A total of 972 adult learners and 2,028 adult non-learners were identified. Thus, one-third (32%) of the sample consisted of adult learners and two-thirds (68%) consisted of adult non-learners, which are proportions consistent with those from previous years when quotas were used to achieve this distribution of learners and non-learners for the survey.

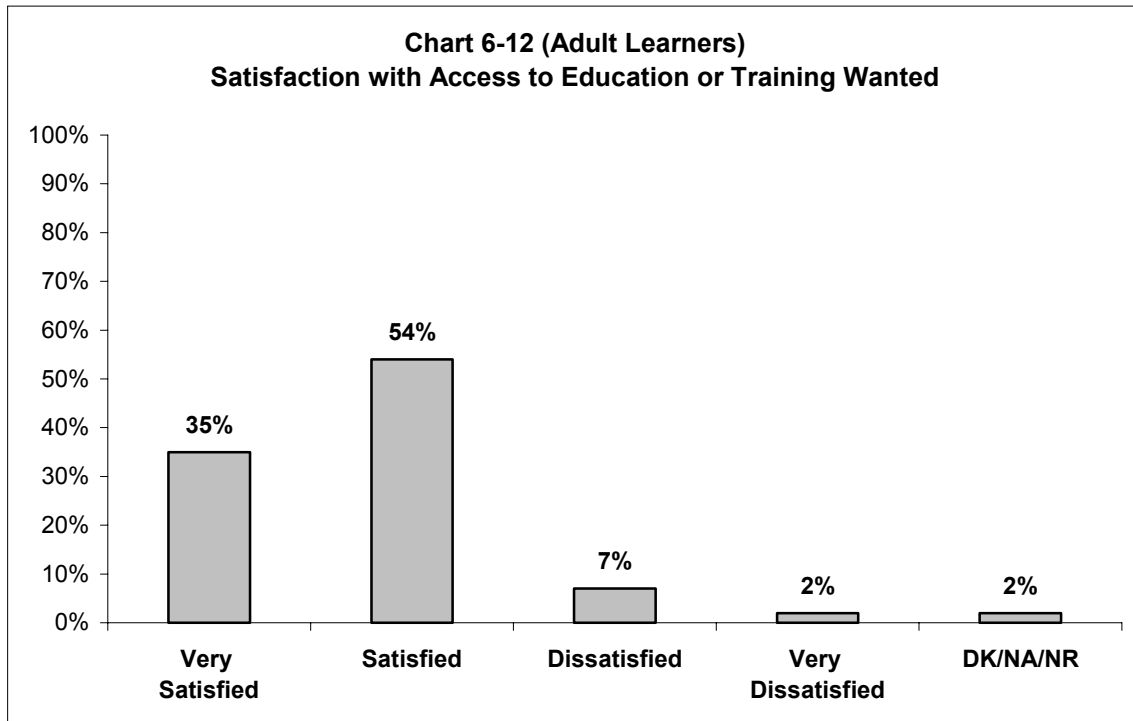

The proportion of adult learners was higher among respondents aged 18-34 years, those with annual income less than $15,000, those with some university education or have completed university education; and lower among those from non cities, those aged 55+ years and those with some high school or high school diploma as their highest level of education.

On the basis of responses to the item concerning whether or not they had taken any education or training in the past 12 months, respondents subsequently answered questions relevant to adult learners or adult non-learners in Alberta.

6.3. Adult Learners

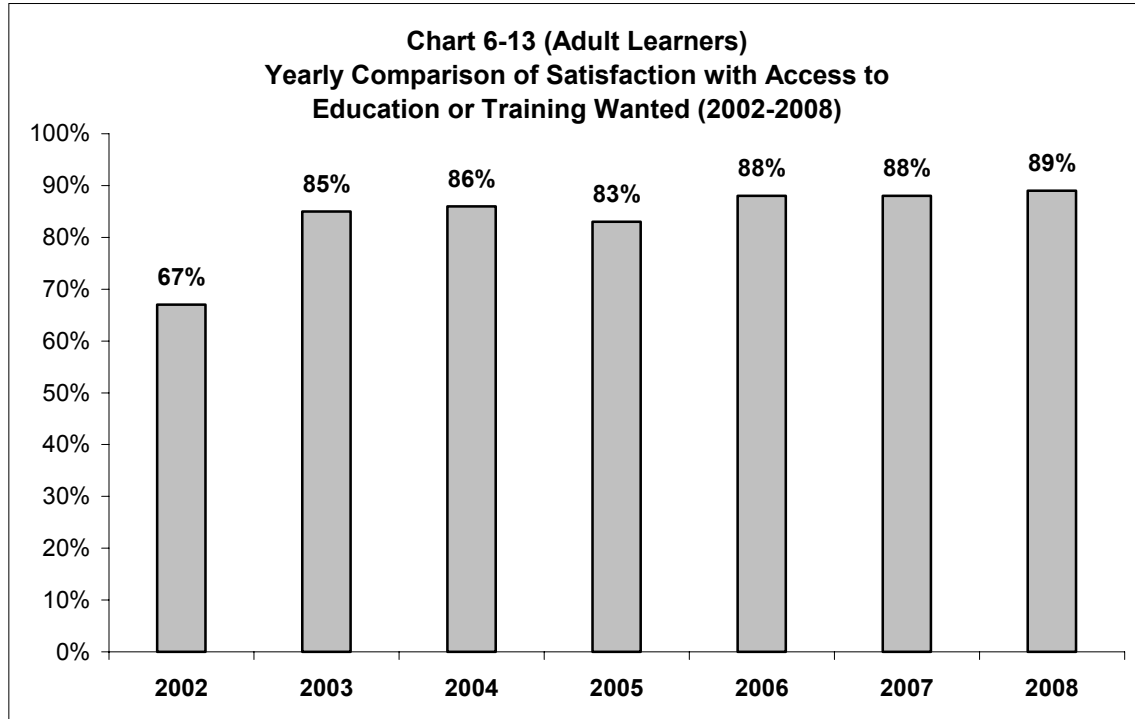

6.3.1. Satisfaction with Access to Education or Training

Among adult learners (n=972), the vast majority (89%) reported being satisfied that they are able to access the education and training they want within Alberta’s learning system, with about one-third (35%) “very satisfied” and over half (54%) “satisfied” (see Chart 6-12).

n=972 (adult learners)
2008 24a. “How satisfied are you that you can access the education and training you want within Alberta’s learning system?”

Results for satisfaction with access to training and education appear to be relatively consistent from 2003 through 2008, and the apparent increase in 2003 over 2002 results may be due to a change in the wording of the item (see Chart 6-13). Specifically, in 2002, adult learners were asked, “Are you very satisfied, satisfied, dissatisfied or very dissatisfied that most adults are able to access the education or training they want?”, whereas in 2003, adult learners were asked, “How satisfied are you that you are able to access the education or training you want within Alberta’s learning system?”. Thus, the change in the focus of the question from “most adults” to the respondents themselves may account for the higher results since 2003.

n=1103 in 2003, n=1000 in 2004, n=1035 in 2005, n=1049 in 2006, n=986 in 2007, n=972 in 2008; n for 2002 was not available in the Source report

2006-2008 "How satisfied are you that you can access the education and training you want within Alberta's learning system?"

Source: 2007 "Survey Summary Report: Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey."

Respondents were also asked to indicate the reason for their rating regarding how satisfied they are that they are able to access the education and training they want within Alberta's education system. Similar to previous items, these open-ended responses were coded into multiple response categories. Specifically, open-ended responses were coded by two independent coders into pre-determined categories based on a summary examination of sample responses. The resulting coded variable was a multiple-response variable, and the categories used for coding are shown in full detail with multiple-response frequencies in the Appendix B data tables for this item. The following tables summarize the results of that coding according to the numbers of positive and negative comments.

Examination of these results (see Tables 6-14 and 6-15) reveals that the majority of the comments were positive and most often related to good class or course availability (24%) and good access in general (16%) (see Table 6-14). The most frequently mentioned negative comments concerned poor class/course availability (35%), finances (not affordable/too expensive/no funding, 22%), and difficulties with geographical access (20%) (see Table 6-15).

6.4. Adult Non-Learners

6.4.1. Reasons for Not Taking Education or Training

Respondents who had not taken any education or training in the past 12 months (n=2,028) were asked to indicate the main reason that they had not done so (see Table 6-16). The most frequently cited reasons included lack of time (22%), no interest (16%), and not required by job/no need (12%). Although there appears to have been some variation in responses over the available survey periods, lack of time and not required by job/no need have remained among the most frequently cited reasons.

6.4.2. Adult Non-Learners' Satisfaction with the Adult Learning System

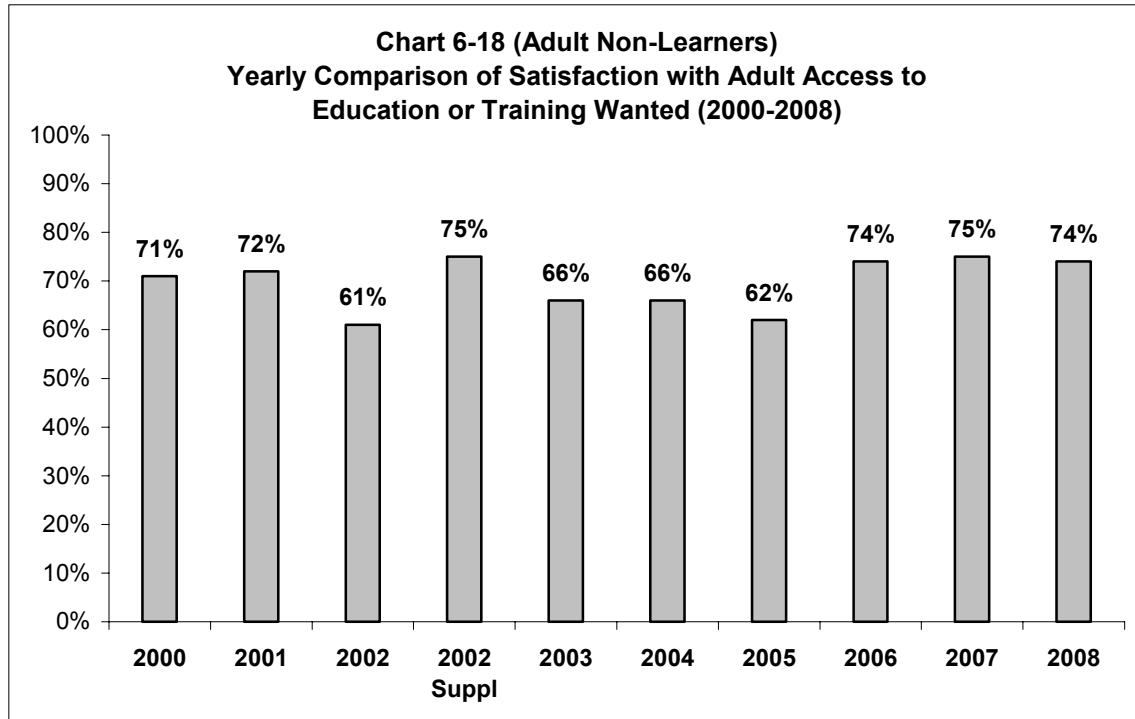

Adult non-learners were also asked a series of questions about their satisfaction with the adult learning system. Where possible, results for adult non-learners are compared to those for adult learners as described in the previous section.

Overall, three-quarters (74%) of adult non-learners were satisfied that most adults have access to the education or training that they want, with 15% "very satisfied" and 60% "satisfied" (see Chart 6-17). Although the satisfaction of adult non-learners (74%) appears to be lower than that of adult learners (89%), it should be noted that adult learners were asked about satisfaction with their own access to education or training, whereas adult non-learners were asked about access for "most adults." Thus, these items may not be directly comparable.

2008 Q23a "How satisfied are you that most adults can access the education or training they want?"

There appears to have been variation over time in adult non-learners' satisfaction that most adults are able to access the education or training they want. However, results for 2006-2008 have remained stable (see Chart 6-18).

n=1335 in 2001, n=751 in 2002, n=2006 in 2003, n=2000 in 2004, n=1965 in 2005, n=1951 in 2006, n=2014 in 2007, n=2028 in 2008; n's for 2000 and 2002 Suppl were not available in the Source report

Adult non-learners were also asked to indicate the reason for their rating of satisfaction with adult access to education or training, and again these open-ended responses were coded into multiple-response coded variables. The most frequently cited positive comments with respect to access to education and training within Alberta's education system were good access generally (30%) and good class/course availability (20%) (see Table 6-19). The most commonly cited negative responses concerned expense and debt load (51%), poor access geographically (15%), poor course availability (15%), and limited access to information (15%) (see Table 6-20).

2006-2008 "For what reason did you give that rating?" Based on coding of open-ended responses to q23b.
Source: 2007 "Survey Summary Report: Public/Adult Learner/Adult Non-Learner Survey."

Note that on previous surveys, an explanation of their rating for satisfaction with adults' access to education and training was asked only of non-learners who were dissatisfied that most adults are able to access the education or training they want, and responses were immediately categorized during the interview into pre-established response categories. In contrast, for 2006, 2007, and 2008, all non-learners (both satisfied and dissatisfied) were asked to explain the reason for their rating in an open-ended format, and responses were later coded into multiple-response categories. Therefore, due to the substantial difference in the nature of the question for the current survey, trending information is not applicable for this item.

6.5. Additional Comments

At the end of the survey, all respondents were asked if they had any additional comments. Overall, 42% of respondents provided some type of additional comment. Comments for this question varied widely in terms of tone, topic, length, and level of detail. Some respondents expanded on or restated opinions they had previously expressed in the survey, while others used the question as an opportunity to address other education or government-related issues. Concerns about funding in Alberta's school systems were commonly addressed along with large class sizes, curriculum concerns, student preparedness, and discipline. As well, some comments focussed on other issues relating to the education system, including comments with respect to access, locations of schools, and finances. Many comments were positive in nature, while others pointed to issues perceived to be in need of attention within the province.

SECTION D – DEMOGRAPHICS (ADULT LEARNERS and NON LEARNERS)

Finally, I have some questions that will help us better understand the data.

- A. Including children and adults, how many dependents do you have?
- 1 None GO TO QC
 - 2 One
 - 3 Two
 - 4 Three
 - 5 More than three
 - 8 Refused
- B. Are there any children in this household who are attending elementary, junior or senior high school in Alberta?
- 1 Yes
 - 2 No
 - 8 Refused
- C. What is your current age?
- 1 Answer (Record age)
 - 8 Refused
- D. What is your current marital status? (Read List, Select one.)

 - 2 Employed part-time (less than 30 hours per week)
 - 3 Unemployed
 - 4 Self-employed
 - 5 Retired
 - 6 Home-maker
 - 7 On leave (maternity/disability)

- 8 Other (SPECIFY) _____
- 98 Refused

F. What is the highest level of education you have attained? (Read list. Check one answer only) (Interviewer Note: A certificate would include fields such as accounting, marketing, office administration, fashion design, drafting, x-ray technician, and hospitality/tourism management. These programs are almost exclusively 1 year (or less) in length. An apprenticeship program would include trade/journeyman/designated occupation certificate. A diploma program – college/technical institute diploma programs are (generally) 2-year programs, often in many of the same fields as the “regular” certificates described above. It is important to distinguish certificates from trade/journeyman/designated occupation certificates. If the respondent identifies a certificate that may be apprenticeship-related (e.g., “I have a millwright certificate” or “I have a warehousing certificate”), probe by asking “Did you enrol in/complete an apprenticeship training program in the _____ trade occupation?” If the respondent indicates “Yes” (or indicates they wrote an exam to qualify for the certificate) then code as trade/journeyman/designated occupation certificate. All other responses should be coded as certificate.

- 1 Less than high school
- 2 Some high school
- 3 High school graduate
- 4 Some post-secondary (college/technical/vocational) GO TO QF1
- 5 Completed post-secondary (college/technical/vocational) GO TO QF2

25. How satisfied are you that adults taking education or training are being well prepared for citizenship? Are you... (INTERVIEWER PROMPT: Citizenship is defined as seeking to realize one's rights, exercise one's responsibilities, have access to political institutions and share a sense of belonging to the local, national and global community. It means having the resources and opportunity to fully participate in society)
